Patterson Warns State Agencies

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Senate Appropriations Chairman J. F. (Pat) Patterson, D-Caruthersville, Tuesday night warned state agencies they will have to provide more detailed information if their budget requests are to be considered.

Patterson complained of too many instances where "legislative intent" has been ignored or misinterpreted in government spending. He promised tighter controls would be imposed by the lawmakers.

Although he said the warning was not directed primarily to that agency, it came during a hearing on requests by the state education department.

Patterson complained about the confusion created by federal funds granted to the state for administration of various programs. He also objected to lumping several jobs together without specifying individual salaries or wage ranges.

Frequently, he said, the federal government starts a program, finances it entirely at the outset then persuades the state to share some of the costs and finally abandons it altogether.

At this point, personnel have been hired and the programs well established, he said—then it's up to the state to continue them.

Patterson also objected to "delayed recruitment" practices in some state agencies. The legislature might authorize four additional personnel, he said, but the agency might wait the first year and then hire eight with the available funds. Then the agency comes before the legislature with eight persons "as the jumping off point," he said.

Patterson said his committee wants detailed reports of how many employees are needed and what their individual salaries will be. This information is needed, he said, before the committee goes into executive session to hammer out the final fiscal program.

GOING INTO the court house at Benton are, from left, Robert Dwyer, executive assistant attorney general from Shelby county, Tenn.; James Beasley, assistant attorney general from Shelby county; Police Inspector H.S. Bivens, and Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Fielding Potashnick. They came for a circuit court appearance by Joel Montgomery, who instead flew to Memphis.

Montgomery Posts $2,000 Bond In Memphis in Surprise Move

Joel M. Montgomery stole the march yesterday on Shelby County, Tenn., law enforcement authorities and the press when he voluntarily surrendered himself in a surprise move to the Shelby County sheriff's office in Memphis. This ended a four-year battle to extradite him from Missouri to Tennessee to face an involuntary manslaughter charge.

The smiling Montgomery, nattily dressed said that he was considering a campaign to run for Missouri governor.

The 45-year-old Montgomery, banker, civic leader, and millionaire, wanted on a charge of aiding and abetting involuntary manslaughter in connection with the 1959 traffic death of a young Memphis woman, flew to Memphis.

With him in his private plane was Scott County Sheriff John Dennis, Scott County Collector Aubrey Michael and Attorney David E. Blanton. There had been no advance indication that this move was in the offing. There was an overnight development in Sikeston. The Junior Chamber of Commerce put into motion plans for a community appreciation dinner for Montgomery March 1. The banker was the Chamber of Commerce's Man of the Year in 1963.

In Memphis, he posted $2,000 bond. He will be arraigned in Memphis in about two weeks.

Montgomery, who formerly was a real estate developer in Memphis, was indicted on the manslaughter charge in 1962 in connection with the death of Miss Glenda Wiles, 24.

He was met at the airport by his Memphis attorney, Don Owens.

Montgomery, after being fingerprinted, photographed and booked, posted his bond.

Montgomery said Phil Canale, Shelby County Attorney General said, "If $2,000 bond was good enough for the Scott County sheriff, then it's good enough for me."

Dennis had taken a bond of that amount from Montgomery at his palatial home here Friday.

Montgomery said everyone in Memphis was friendly and that he was greeted by many acquaintances he had made while living in Memphis nine years.

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Fielding Potashnick had said that he expected Montgomery to appear in circuit court in Scott County yesterday at 1:30 p.m.

Canale dispatched two assistants, Executive Assistant Atty. Gen. Robert K. Dwyer; Asst. Atty. Gen. James C. Beasley and Police Inspector H.S. Bivens to Benton to appear in circuit court at 1:30 p.m.

Reporters and photographers along with the men from Memphis and Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Potashnick cooled their heads in the court house at Benton for an hour before learning that Montgomery had posted bond in Memphis.

Similarly before noon the press waited in Magistrate Court where Sheriff Dennis had said Montgomery would appear at 9 a.m. The banker didn't appear.

Montgomery gave this reason for going to Memphis: "Everything was getting political and was being blown out of proportion."

Earlier he had said that he would resist extradition all the way to the United States supreme court if necessary.

He said he was kept busy shaking hands with friends.

"We went to eat and even the waiters came out to shake his hand," Dennis said.

"The man has as many friends there as he has in Sikeston and Scott County."

Rumors have persisted that more was involved than the manslaughter charge in the eagerness of Tennessee authorities to extradite him. Asked about this, Montgomery denied there was any basis for them.

"Why no, that assumption was made up by my self-appointed political opponents," he explained.

He would not name them.

"I think everyone knows who they are," he said.

Dennis confirmed that people had wondered why Montgomery hadn't returned to Memphis sooner.

"I'd say 90 per cent of the people back home are for him," he said, "and those who aren't just wonder why he hasn't come back to Memphis sooner."

Montgomery, Dennis and Michael were still in Memphis this morning waiting for weather conditions to clear before flying back to Sikeston.

Canale said that the state doesn't yet have its case ready to present.

Montgomery told reporters in Memphis he hoped that the testimony of an eyewitness to the crash, cab driver Jewell James Williams, "will be significant."

Williams' statement, according to Montgomery, reverses testimony the cab driver gave in a previous trial of Mrs. Betty Lou Sells, who admitted being the driver of Montgomery's car on the night of the fatal accident. Williams testified that Mrs. Sells ran a red light "at 70 miles per hour."

Williams, 46, is in the United States Medical Center in Springfield, Mo., after being blinded by a razor-wielding mental patient in a San Diego, Calif., jail.

In making the new statement, Williams said he was told by police and the attorney general's office that if he didn't blame the crash on the Montgomery car, there would be no money to pay for burial expenses for Miss Wiles or the medical bills of another occupant of the Montgomery car.

Potashnick had expected Montgomery's attorneys to file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus yesterday afternoon in an effort to block Montgomery's extradition to Memphis.

Montgomery said that friends had urged him to run for governor.

"We haven't made up our minds yet," he added.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce decided last night to sponsor a community appreciation dinner for Montgomery March 1.

The dinner will be held at the Armory at 7 p.m.

Paul Slinkard, president, said the purpose of the dinner would be to convey to Montgomery the warm regard the community holds for him.

Tickets for the dinner will be available from Jaycees and business men.

Lively Debate in Prospect Before Military Bill Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate plunges into fresh argument today over Viet Nam with days of crackling debate in prospect before its expected overwhelming passage of a military supply bill.

Nearly 30 senators have notified the leadership they want an opportunity to discuss President Johnson's Southeast Asia policies before they vote on a $4.8-billion authorization measure. It covers part of the $12.3-billion emergency money request for Viet Nam outlays.

Acting Democratic Leader Russell B. Long of Louisiana declined a request by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a critic of Johnson's Viet Nam policies, to delay consideration of the bill until next week.

"Frankly," he said, "the funds to support our men who are fighting in Viet Nam are a critical matter and I very much doubt the wisdom of further delay."

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, asked for speedy action. He said it is "fatal that this bill clear the Congress by the latter part of this month."

Russell said in an interview he will oppose any effort to attach to the measure any policy rider.

Russell predicted overwhelming approval of the bill when a vote is reached.

Deadline Set For School Vote

BELL CITY — March 24 was set as the deadline for filing for two board of education positions at a meeting of the board of education of school district R-2.

The terms of Leo Lape and Walter Nichols expire.

Those interested in filing may contact Edward Cockrell, secretary of the board.

Nearly 5,000 persons are afflicted with phenylketonuria, a metabolic disorder causing mental retardation.

Burglars Rob Store 4th Time

The Marks and Stearnes Mart at 700 North Main St., was robbed for the fourth time in two years when burglars entered the building last night.

The damage to the building was the greatest of any of the break-ins, but the loss of $250 to $285 in currency and change was below other burglaries at the store.

More than one person apparently was involved in the break-in. A hole, 18 by 18 inches, was knocked in the wall from the engine room to the back store room.

Three fan louvers were torn loose from the back of the building to gain entrance to the first partition, after which the thieves knocked a hole in the wall.

The thieves went to the front of the building by the cash register and the four-foot high safe-vault combination. The lower door of the safe was pried loose and opened, and the money that was used for change in the cash register, was taken. No papers or checks in this compartment were removed.

The upper round vault door was not opened, but marks indicated the thieves tried to open it. The greater portion of the store's cash was placed in the vault and was not disturbed.

While the burglars were in the front, they took a half dozen or more cardboard hangers containing razor blades. At least five other brands of blades hanging alongside were not disturbed.

Other merchandise known to be missing, according to Albert L. Marks, one of the owners, are 30 cartons of cigarettes.

A complete inventory has not been made.

Charles Stearnes, a partner of Marks, said that a police investigation after they opened the doors at 7 a.m. today, revealed heavy clearly outlined shoe sole prints, leading to and from the Missouri Delta Community hospital parking lot north of the store.

The burglars left by the back door by lifting the bars from the door.

Rabbi Slayer Dies

DETROIT AP — Richard Wisnietzky, 23, who shot the rabbi of his congregation before turning a pistol on himself, died of his wound today.

Lane Critic of Viet Nam Policy

CHARLESTON — Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Lane, U.S.A., retired, who will talk March 3 at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium on U.S. military policy in Viet Nam, is a critic of the policy.

Since the military analysts' voluntary retirement in 1962, General Lane has been a writer on military affairs for newspapers.

The speaker's military career began at the United States Military Academy in West Point, from which he graduated in 1928. From 1957 to 1960 General Lane was commander of Fort Leonard Wood and from 1960 until his voluntary retirement in 1962 he served as president of the Mississippi River commission. Persons desiring tickets for the address may contact C. I. Lutz Jr. or Henri Hequem-bourg in Charleston.

Hikes Interest on Bonds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today an increase of slightly more than one-fourth of 1 per cent in the interest rate on Series E and H U.S. savings bonds.

Johnson said the new rate, which will apply both to bonds already outstanding and new issues, will be 4.15 per cent. The present rate is 3.75 per cent.

The President could have raised the rate as high as 4.25 per cent without additional congressional action.

The increase is intended not only to make savings bonds a more attractive investment but by stimulating bond sales — as the administration hopes it will — to help avert inflation.

In announcing the increase, Johnson said the savings bond program strengthens the security of the American family and the economy of the nation, supports the cause of freedom and U.S. fighting men in Viet Nam, and helps preserve the buying powers of our dollars.

The last increase was in 1959 when the rate was boosted to its present level from 3.52 per cent.

Johnson said a month ago that the rates should be increased because alternative investments made savings bonds less attractive to the public. Most banks pay at least 4 per cent on savings accounts and some savings and loan associations pay close to 5 per cent.

Hearnes to Ask Tax Cut

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes plans to ask the special legislative session next month for two new programs.

One would benefit employers with a $17 million cut in unemployment tax rates. The other would relieve old age assistance clients from paying the first $40 of their hospital bills after July 1.

About 20,000 employers would pay lower rates to support the unemployment compensation program. The cut is possible because unemployment has declined and taxable wages have increased.

The reserve fund which supports the program is now at an all time high of $242 million and is expected to reach $260 million by next Jan. 1.

The governor said his advisory council on employment security approved the cut.

He said the state can afford to take over payment of the first $40 of hospital care for the old folks when Medicare goes into effect because new federal payments will actually decrease the total cost to the state by $1.2 million.

Payment of the first $40 of hospital costs will apply only to the 100,000 persons getting old age assistance.

Hearnes introduced the original Missouri medical care program for the indigent in 1959 when he was majority leader of the House.

He said the President's program calls for greater production abroad in the way of foods, and for the elimination of the idea of the "surplus." He said this would result in continued expansion of American markets abroad for farm products.

Jones observed that the program would convert the phrases "food for peace," and "war on hunger" into deeds, rather than words.

He observed also that the United States has not used its abundance of food to the proper advantage. He noted that the United States has supplied foreign countries with money instead of food, and farm products, and these people have used it to purchase in other countries that which the United States has had an abundance.

He thinks the products themselves should be used in the foreign aid program.

He added "we should supply them with those essentials we have in excess."

Jones also commended the President and Secretary of Ag-

Humphrey In India

NEW DELHI, India AP — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey today offered Indian farmers American know-how to banish hunger, then flew here to discuss with Indian leaders Red China's expansionist pressure and other problems.

Humphrey reached the capital after an hour spent at Ludhiana in the Punjab—India's bread basket — talking farming with a Peace Corps volunteer, the Indian birth control program with a family planning expert, and wheat culture with Indian farm researchers.

This was the fifth country on a 40,000 miles, nine-country tour that began in South Viet Nam and will end next week in South Korea.

Jones Praises Plans to Ship Food, New GI Bill

Special to Daily Standard

WASHINGTON — Rep. Paul Jones, Kennett, Mo., Democrat, today expressed approval of the administration's plan for stepped up shipment of farm products and foods abroad as well as the use of these products in the foreign aid program instead of cash.

He said the President's program calls for greater production abroad in the way of foods, and for the elimination of the idea of the "surplus." He said this would result in continued expansion of American markets abroad for farm products.

Jones observed that the program would convert the phrases "food for peace," and "war on hunger" into deeds, rather than words.

He observed also that the United States has not used its abundance of food to the proper advantage. He noted that the United States has supplied foreign countries with money instead of food, and farm products, and these people have used it to purchase in other countries that which the United States has had an abundance.

He thinks the products themselves should be used in the foreign aid program.

He added "we should supply them with those essentials we have in excess."

Jones also commended the President and Secretary of Agriculture Freeman for the plan to make more guaranteed loans, rather than direct loans to farmers. He noted that as high as 60 per cent of the loans for some programs were guaranteed loans and not direct ones.

He commented also that this plan should be used in the college student loans. It would teach them greater responsibility to borrow from bankers, with the knowledge the loan was not a gift, but a business transaction. This also would give the student contact with business leaders, which would be of future value to him.

Jones expressed approval of the President's action in signing the G.I. bill for boys in Viet Nam, similar to that for those who fought in Korea, and the world wars. He said congress gave the G.I.'s more than the president asked but that the bill as passed was a reasonable compromise.

Jones noted that public opinion was stronger against repealing the right-to-work laws than the President was for it, and therefore the senate failed to shut off the filibuster. This leaves the right-to-work laws in force.

The public opinion reached the senate he said but he predicted there would be a lot of "demagoguing" on the subject during the next election.

Humphrey In India

NEW DELHI, India AP — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey today offered Indian farmers American know-how to banish hunger, then flew here to discuss with Indian leaders Red China's expansionist pressure and other problems.

Humphrey reached the capital after an hour spent at Ludhiana in the Punjab—Indian's bread basket — talking farming with a Peace Corps volunteer, the Indian birth control program with a family planning expert, and wheat culture with Indian farm researchers.

This was the fifth country tour that began in South Viet Nam and will end next week in South Korea.

Jones Praises Plans to Ship Food, New GI Bill

Special to Daily Standard WASHINGTON — Rep. Paul Jones, Kennett, Mo., Democrat, today expressed approval of the administration's plan for stepped up shipment of farm products and foods abroad as well as the use of these products in the foreign aid program instead of cash.

He said the President's program calls for greater production abroad in the way of foods, and for the elimination of the idea of the "surplus". He said this would result in continued expansion of American markets abroad for farm products.

Jones observed that the program would convert the phrases "food for peace," and "war on hunger" into deeds, rather than words.

He observed also that the United States has not used its abundance of food to the proper advantage. He noted that the United States has supplied foreign countries with money instead of food, and farm products, and these people have used it to purchase in other countries that which the United States has had an abundance.

He thinks the products themselves should be used in the foreign aid program.

He added "we should supply them with those essentials we have in excess."

Jones also commended the president and Secretary of Agriculture Freeman for the plan to make more guaranteed loans, rather than direct loans to farmers. He noted that as high as 60 per cent of the loans for some programs were guaranteed loans and not direct ones.

He commented also that this plan should be used in the college student loans. It would teach them greater responsibility to borrow from bankers, with the knowledge the loan was not a gift, but a business transaction. This also would give the student contact with business leaders, which would be of future value to him.

Jones expressed approval of the President's action in signing the G.I. bill for boys in Viet Nam, similar to that for those who fought in Korea, and the world wars. He said congress gave the G.I.'s more than the president asked but that the bill as passed was a reasonable compromise.

Jones noted that public opinion was stronger against repealing the right-to-work laws than the President was for it, and therefore the senate failed to shut off the filibuster. This leaves the right-to-work laws in force.

IT'S NOT THE SIZE

ADVERTISING IS NOT the exclusive property of "big business." The impression that small retailers have very little chance in advertising because they can't match the astronomical appropriations of the giants, is entirely misleading.

There are thousands of small manufacturers and small merchants using newspaper advertising effectively every day. They know that the size of the appropriation is not the measure of successful advertising.

There are no more customers in a given area for the big chain store than for the small store. The larger the store the more difficult it is for them to become localized in their advertising.

Small merchants must remember that bigness is not the factor that makes people read newspaper advertising. Keep small space interesting, keep it consistent and it will get readers. Witness any columnist in your newspaper. Seldom do they occupy more than ten inches of space.

Small advertisers should put the same "sell" in their advertisements as the big stores do. Large stores have hundreds of items to support with advertising, where the small merchant has a score.

BEING READY FOR FREEDOM'S SAKE

Many Americans have been unable to answer communist propaganda because they lack facts about the United States and its constitutional guarantees of freedom. Before they can intelligently support and advance the cause of America, they must be familiar with what it means and what it stands for.

Patriots must also learn about the enemy, the theory and operation of communism, how it distorts and twists facts, how it uses lies and propaganda, and how it infiltrates worthwhile organizations to spread its poisonous doctrine.

Unless we are informed about how communism operates, we may fail to recognize some of the most insidious Red efforts being made right here in our own country.

We may be sure that the communists are informed about their Marxist-Leninist doctrine, and are taught how to impose their philosophy on any group with which they may be working. Further, the communist is dedicated to his task of "liberating" the proletariat; i.e., waging war against the capitalist class and overthrowing capitalism which he has been taught to consider the worst evil in the world.

The patriot, having informed himself about his country and the nature of the struggle in which he is engaged, will find there are many ways in which he can work for freedom and victory over communism.

Here are just a few, most of which can be carried on in the office, factory, job, home and church.

Be alert in your conversation for an opportunity to speak a word for patriotism. If someone makes a remark which you believe to be negative, counter it with facts. Make opportunities in conversation to boost Americanism. As patriots we can make American citizenship mean more than ever before.

Patriots should emphasize to everyone in educational circles the need for patriotism in classrooms. School children receive many of their most lasting impressions from their teachers. The study of American history--with proper emphasis upon the beliefs, achievements, immortal expressions, and the deeds of our national heroes--will provide pupils with the greatest true adventure stories to be found anywhere. The study of history, Constitution, and government will provide a sound basis for love of country and pride in citizenship.

Civic and service clubs, veterans' organizations and churches are appropriate forums for discussing current events, American principles, and dangers of communism. Patriots should encourage the use of such programs which inform and stir those who might otherwise remain indifferent and inactive.

More and more, churches are recognizing that communism is a real threat to religion and are conducting programs and forums on the subject. The people who attend such programs are awakening to the danger.

Patriots should encourage greater observance in their communities of national holidays. Our greatest patriotic holiday, of course, is Independence Day on July 4. In far too many cities, and towns across our land this is only another day when stores and offices are closed.

Patriots can form private discussion groups to talk about issues of the day and to inform members on current events. In almost every city or town there are men and women who want to be part of such a discussion group.

Patriots can support their country by encouraging others who render service to their country. A word of cheer or a compliment may cause some faltering patriot to take heart again and carry on in the maintenance of freedom.

The ultimate question to be decided in this struggle is not just whether communism or capitalism will win, but whether we shall live under freedom or slavery; whether there shall be a land which accords dignity and importance to the individual.

Patriots vote because this is the manifestation of their sovereign power.

Patriots can campaign for local and state governments to provide the services which are their special responsibility so that the power of government will always remain close to the people. This is one of the cardinal principles of freedom.

Patriots will believe in and work for their personal enterprise system, realizing that it affords to all the opportunity for achievement. It is the reason why America has amazing industrial productivity and a high standard of living. Nowhere else in the whole world is there such freedom of opportunity.

Those who long for victory over communism, and those who love this great land of ours can make their views known through writing letters to the editors of their newspapers. Almost every paper, large and small, has a column in which letters contributed by readers are published. Here is a forum where one can tell the world he loves America. Here he can tell of the dangers of communism, and perhaps alert some other citizen to join in the fight.

These are but a few of the more obvious things we can do as individual patriots. Of one thing we may be sure, our enemies are not resting. They are continually working and pressing forward. We cannot afford to relax or rest, or our cause will be lost.

If each patriot would set out to convince, instruct, and inform one person each week about the danger free men face today; and if he persuaded that person to the side of patriotism; and if the chain were continued, everyone in the world could be reached within a year's time.

It is time to expose the communists for the deceivers that they are and to unmask their tyranny before the eyes of the world. Ours is the cause of right. The sooner we heed the call and subdue the enemy, the more quickly we will insure that freedom shall not disappear from the earth.

TIPS FROM THE TROOPERS

The Missouri Highway Patrol troopers do a great deal of driving in all types of weather. Through their experiences they have accumulated a vast amount of knowledge pertaining to the safe operation of motor vehicles. The troopers offer these tips for safer driving on ice and snow:

1. Before you go anywhere be sure you can see. Remove all snow and ice from windows. Driving is no time to play "peek-a-boo."
2. Plan ahead. Slow down well ahead of crossroads. Heavy traffic at intersections packs and polishes ice and snow to a dangerous glaze.
3. Test your brakes when out of traffic to get the feel of the road.
4. Whenever possible, avoid driving on highways with hills and curves when there is ice and snow. If you have a choice, take a route that has fewer hills and curves, even though it is of greater distance.

5. Beware of ice spots on bridges and in shady spots on the highway. Many times they are slick even when the rest of the road is clear.
6. Pump your brakes when stopping. This will give you better steering and stopping control.
7. Watch ahead for traffic tie-ups. When vehicles are stalled on a hill and blocking traffic, stop where there is good traction, (either on a downgrade or on level), and wait for the traffic to clear. You will then be able to get a good moving start and to keep going.
8. Keep tire chains in the trunk of your car, not in the garage, and put them on when conditions warrant.
9. Put a bag of sand and a shovel in the trunk for use in an emergency.
10. Use seat belts. This safety tip holds true in all types of weather.

NEW YORK (AP) — What is worse than falling in love? Going on a diet.

A person in love is usually only a nuisance to himself—or perhaps to one other person, his beloved. But anyone on a diet is a nuisance to nearly everyone.

That's why all the world may love a lover, but no one in history has ever been stirred to build a monument to a dieter.

Food is all he can think about or talk about. Instead of greeting you with "What's new?" he asks: "What did you have for breakfast this morning?"

They say misery loves company, and many thick dieters should be isolated from the rest of humanity during their ordeal—perhaps to a lonely mountain top or a desert.

But since at any given time about a fourth of all Americans over 30 are dieting, or pretending to be, this idea is impractical. It might be simpler to exile the nondieters. In our present abundant, affluent society it would appear that they are the ones who are abnormal.

In any case, lumping the dieters together is no answer.

For example, I have been nearly seven weeks on the annual diet I start at the beginning of each year. It wrecks my day to meet another dieter for he is sure to inquire how much I lost last week.

"Six and one-eighth ounces," I reply.

"Well, I lost 3½ pounds," he chortles. "You want to know how I did it?"

"No."

"Well, I did it by having nothing but pomegranate juice and raw sauerkraut. Why don't you try it?"

Each guy has a different success story, an easy remedy. One melts his avoidpots off by eating nothing but radishes and fried squash. Another does it with goat cheese and broiled duck eggs. Still another thins down with a mixture of mineral oil and mashed mangoes.

There is a scientific theory that eating food high in calories is what tends to make you chubby. But this is only partly true. As a veteran of scores of diets, I think there are only two general rules that are really helpful in trying to slim down:

1. Never eat at all when hungry.

2. When not hungry, eat only foods you genuinely despise.

If this program doesn't work, you might as well relax and enjoy your fat.

GLOBE-TROTTERING SALESMAN

Be a top salesman -- and see the world!

This doesn't mean that the salesman in question is taking his bag of samples to the far corners of the globe. But it does describe an incentive to produce that has been found highly rewarding by more and more enterprises.

Numerous winners of sales incentive contests and their wives are spending vacations overseas, earned as rewards for selling their quotas of refrigerators, air conditioners, automobiles, insurance, and many other kinds of products and services. More than 100 U.S. volume manufacturers now regularly use incentive travel, and the growth rate is accelerating at about 10 per cent a year. These major employers have found that travel is the most alluring incentive to spur sales -- better than cash, cars or other prizes. And numbers of companies mix business sessions in with the fun and sight-seeing. They have found that vacation spots are ideal for training because of their relaxed and informal atmosphere.

Another factor, intangible but highly important, should be mentioned here. Travel -- and especially travel in strange and foreign lands -- is an educational influence. We may not know it, because it is painless and subtle. But a glimpse, no matter how fleeting, into the way of life of other people broadens the mind and provides new perspectives. It makes for a wiser and more productive and able human being.

Fang told me one day that he was going to school and study Karate. "That's something that you learn," he said, "so you can break furniture with your bare hands."

"Who needs to go to school for that?" I replied. "Just ask the kids!"

A FORM OF BLACKMAIL

The Negro preacher had successfully concealed the fact that he had served a term in prison, but long years of upright living had not destroyed his fear of exposure.

One Sunday on rising to begin his sermon his heart sank on seeing in one of the front pews a former cellmate.

Quick thinking was necessary, turning the Bible around a couple of times to gain time, he fixed his eye on the stranger and delivered himself slowly and impressively as follows: "Ah takes mah text dis mawnin' from de sixty-fifth chapter and de four hunduth v'ise ob de Gospel ob Saint John, which says, 'Dem as sees me and knows me, an' says nothin', dem will Ah see later.'"

A lady who was worried at the failure of her 28-year-old daughter to find a husband persuaded her to insert a classified ad in the "personal" columns, reading: "Beautiful exotic young heiress seeks correspondence with devil-may-care gentleman who wants to go places fast."

Two days after the ad appeared the mother asked anxiously: "Well, any answers?" "Just one," sighed the daughter.

"Who wrote it?" demanded Mama.

"I'd rather not say," said the daughter.

"But this was my idea," shouted Mama, "and I insist upon knowing."

"All right, if you insist," said the daughter wearily. "It was

WASHINGTON -- Only Senate leaders are furnished government limousines; all other senators, including committee chairmen, are obliged to provide their own transportation.

There is, however, one curious exception. Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., drives a sleek, black jet 88 Oldsmobile thoughtfully provided by a Connecticut contractor.

The car carries the Connecticut license tag, "U.S. Sen. 1." But the registration is made out to Dunbar Associates, Inc., of 54 Pane Road, Newington, Conn.

The Senator has been driving the Dunbar company car ever since July, 1964. He wrote a thank-you letter, carefully marked "personal," to David Dunbar, the company president, on July 23, 1964.

"I want you to know how deeply grateful I am to you for the wonderful assistance which you have given me," wrote Dodd. "The car is just great, and it sure gets me around."

Soon after the car arrived, Dodd began scouting around for government contracts for Dunbar Associates. He made inquiries at the Atomic Energy Commission and Government Printing Office.

RETURN FAVOR
Thanks in part to his intervention, Dunbar was awarded the contract to close down the Connecticut Advanced Nuclear Engineering laboratory.

The Senator was less successful, however, with the public printer. He turned this project over to Gerry Zeller, a former assistant, who investigated whether Dunbar could get the contract to move the government printing office to a new building.

Last June, Zeller received a note from the Senator's private secretary, Doreen Moloney.

"Dave Dunbar called and wanted me to check with the Senator about setting up a luncheon next week with Jim Harrison of Government Printing," wrote Miss Moloney. "The Senator said to check with you, and I suppose if you give the go-ahead, the luncheon can be set up."

Zeller learned that the printing office wouldn't be moving into its new quarters for several years, and that all contracts would be handled by the Joint Congressional Committee on Printing.

"In view of this," replied Zeller in a memo, "I am sure there will be very heavy political implications in the whole deal and will take an awful lot of spade work to get any piece of this action for Dunbar or anybody else."

UNDERWORLD POET

Beneath the gruff exterior of Cosa Nostra killer Joe Valachi, it can now be told, beats the heart of a poet.

The federal agents who arrested him were nonplussed to discover several tender verses among his pistols and brass knuckles. Addressed to his blonde girl friend, Carol Jacobs, they made up in passion what they lacked in rhyme.

"Do you love your Joey boy?" entreated one Valachio poem. "If you don't love your Joey boy, he is going to die."

Being such a sentimental fellow, Joey Boy had enough love left over for his wife, whom he used to address affectionately as "Mommy." But whatever feeling "Mommy" (formerly Mildred Reina) had for Valachi apparently has faded.

Alone in his cell, Joe recently wrote in his unpublished memoirs: "My wife was saint, even if she is mad at me. I must tell the truth there isn't a woman on earth that is better than her. They could equal her but not better--a lot of class God bless her."

PRIVATE SPES
The FBI is investigating the practice of certain foreign governments to hire American private detectives to spy on political refugees who have been granted asylum in this country.

Some private eyes function virtually as secret police for these governments.

One of the worst offenders is the island dictatorship of Haiti which, over the years, has hired the following detective firms: Associated Detectives, Inc., Miami; Borger Associates, New York City; and National Detective Agencies, Inc., Washington.

National Detective's chief, Chauncey James, stated frankly on his registration form that one of his functions was "to ascertain the activities of certain Haitian citizens, government officials and former government officials who are presently in the USA."

Note: In 1959, Richard Chamber registered as a Haitian agent to furnish information on people "conspiring against the Haitian regime."

Vice President Hubert Humphrey, who is still looking for an appropriate place to hang his hat, has framed a letter written by Vice President George Dallas more than 100 years ago. The letter indicates that Dallas also had trouble over where to live.

"The more things change," says Humphrey, "the more they remain the same." Lobbyists constantly throw parties for senators, but last week a group of senators arranged a surprise party for a lobbyist, Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., learned that one of the most popular lobbyists on Capitol Hill, Chuck Lipson, had reached his 40th birthday. So Hartke got together with some of his colleagues and cooked up a birthday party. So many senators showed up that they could have had a quorum call around the cake.

This column recently reported that congressmen had been holding their annual golf tournament at the fashionable Breakers Hotel in Palm Beach, Fla., despite the fact that the hotel barred Jewish guests. The story implied that Rep. Edward Derwinski, R-III, who arranged the 1965 tournament, wasn't concerned. This column has now learned that Derwinski wrote to the hotel, threatening to cancel the tournament unless the hotel stopped discriminating against Jews. We are happy to clarify the story.

A TELEPHONE CALL

A friend related that recently, in a city not his home, he looked up the telephone number of a world-famous airline in the yellow pages of the directory. He dialed the number, and half a dozen times got a busy signal. Then, on the seventh attempt, to his surprise he was connected with a special operator. She informed him that the number he had been dialing had been changed and gave him the new number.

He dialed that number. A recorded voice came on the line to say, "Blank Airlines information and reservations are busy. An operator will be with you in a moment." He held on and heard this message, repeated at intervals of a few times, (He counted.)

Then a man's voice answered. Unfortunately, he was not able to give my friend the information he wanted, which was the time at which he should leave by bus for the airport in order to catch his plane.

His purpose in relating this was not to place blame on any individual or any business. He simply cited this as part of the organized confusion which wastes so much time and effort for all of us every day.

We are continually being told that the age of the computer has arrived and that it is going to work great changes for the better in our lives. This may be true. But some may fear that computers will only make more perfect the organization of the confusion which hampers so many of our activities--and the end result will be complete rather than partial confusion! Gen. Eisenhower Charges Munition Contract Awards Being Affected by Political Influence.

Washington, D. C.: -- Only the genial grin and occasional reports from some golf course have it appear that the old soldier, Dwight D. Eisenhower, is far from the battle. He is not.

Just the other day the General dispatched a letter which revealed his concern over the necessary escalation of the "industrial-military complex."

The unpublished letter disclosed deep concern over what he believes to be the danger of the American way of life becoming based on and dependent upon an armaments economy.

He perceived danger in the bitter competition between munitions makers and entire communities for defense contracts and facilities.

He decried what he called the seeking of political favors from unnamed forces, perhaps somewhere in the Pentagon or other labyrinth of government.

And he charged that such political favors were being granted.

This communication, which recognizes the need for smashing Communist aggression, was sent on Feb. 7, 1966, from Indio, Calif., to the American Veterans Committee (AVC), a select group who also sees the need for confrontation with Communist totalitarianism.

The missive is addressed to Stanley Karson, chairman of the AVC's Special Committee on the Military - Industrial Complex.

Events leading to President Eisenhower's writing such a note at the height of the Vietnamese war began some six months ago at an AVC convention in Atlantic City. There, a knowledgeable, philosophical, though pragmatic, committee leader, Gus Tyler, assistant to the president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, said there now must be a new dimension of concentrated activity.

He believes the AVC should become the civilian watchdog of the military establishment. The AVC, though no longer a mass organization, has in its cabinet members, governors, senators, representatives and many writers as well as business and labor leaders.

The Committee is anti-Communist. In this troubled world it recognizes the need for a military establishment -- even an expanding one.

In effect, what Mr. Tyler said was: We are not pacifists. We know there must be a military establishment, but we don't want it to overrun our civilian society.

So, at his suggestion, the AVC set up a committee to look into the efficacy and democracy of the draft and thorough representation on the boards; military justice and education; programs of information. The Committee, which long ago fought back Communist infiltration and ousted its would-be captors, wanted a positive program and democratic thinking in the industrial - military complex. The phrase was originally Dwight D. Eisenhower's. He amazed the land with it in his farewell speech, Jan. 17, 1961.

The committee had an imposing task studying an awesome phenomenon. The Pentagon employs over 3.5 million directly. The supporting civilian defense production mechanism reportedly now employs over 10 million directly and indirectly.

A few weeks ago the AVC subcommittee distributed copies of President Eisenhower's 1961 speech. And out of courtesy to the General, Mr. Karson wrote a polite note so informing him.

To the surprise of the AVC staff, Dwight D. Eisenhower replied with a startling letter encouraging their work. It has never been published.

It should be on the record, for it bluntly says that at this very moment when young men are slogging it through explosive elephant grass and rice "paddies," shoulder - deep in brackish water and enemy guerrillas, military contracts are being let to clients of powerful lobbyists and to political favorites.

"... I am glad to know that your organization is devoting time and energy to studying the ramifications of what I called the military - industrial complex," writes the General.

"The influence of tremendous munition expenditures is felt in every phase of our national life -- millions today owe their prosperity, indeed their livelihood, to this kind of production. Communities and manufacturers compete for new munitions facilities or contracts; to obtain such favorable situations, political influence is sought and often given."

"Manifestly, all of us should be alert to the possibility that munitions production could become so important that whole communities will look upon it as a way of life. We may forget that these expenditures are merely for the purpose of defending ourselves and what we now have."

"Our struggle against world communism involves military, economic and spiritual factors. Each is equally important, and it is up to us to see that we maintain the necessary strength in each and the power balance among the three. Sincerely, Dwight Eisenhower."

These are the words of a General of the armies, the commander at Normandy, the 34th President, as well as the wise squire of Gettysburg.

They are words of warning in this era of what may be a final conflict. To ignore these words and therefore not to draw from the old soldier

The study of history, Constitution, and government will provide a sound basis for love of country and pride in citizenship.

Civic and service clubs, veterans' organizations and churches are appropriate forums for discussing current events, American principles, and dangers of communism. Patriots should encourage the use of such programs which inform and stir those who might otherwise remain indifferent and inactive.

More and more, churches are recognizing that communism is a real threat to religion and are conducting programs and forums on the subject. The people who attend such programs are awakening to the danger.

Patriots should encourage greater observance in their communities of national holidays. Our greatest patriotic holiday, of course, is Independence Day on July 4. In far too many cities, and towns across our land this is only another day when stores and offices are closed.

Patriots can form private discussion groups to talk about issues of the day and to inform members on current events. In almost every city or town there are men and women who want to be part of such a discussion group.

Patriots can support their country by encouraging others who render service to their country. A word of cheer or a compliment may cause some faltering patriot to take heart again and carry on in the maintenance of freedom.

The ultimate question to be decided in this struggle is not just whether communism or capitalism will win, but whether we shall live under freedom or slavery; whether there shall be a land which accords dignity and importance to the individual.

Patriots vote because this is the manifestation of their sovereign power.

Patriots can campaign for local and state governments to provide the services which are their special responsibility so that the power of government will always remain close to the people. This is one of the cardinal principles of freedom.

Patriots will believe in and work for their personal enterprise system, realizing that it affords to all the opportunity for achievement. It is the reason why America has amazing industrial productivity and a high standard of living. Nowhere else in the whole world is there such freedom of opportunity.

Those who long for victory over communism, and those who love this great land of ours can make their views known through writing letters to the editors of their newspapers. Almost every paper, large and small, has a column in which letters contributed by readers are published. Here is a forum where one can tell the world he loves America. Here he can tell of the dangers of communism, and perhaps alert some other citizen to join in the fight.

These are but a few of the more obvious things we can do as individual patriots. Of one thing we may be sure, our enemies are not resting. They are continually working and pressing forward. We cannot afford to relax or rest, or our cause will be lost.

If each patriot would set out to convince, instruct, and inform one person each week about the danger free men face today; and if he persuaded that person to the side of patriotism; and if the chain were continued, everyone in the world could be reached within a year's time.

It is time to expose the communists for the deceivers that they are and to unmask their tyranny before the eyes of the world. Ours is the cause of right. The sooner we heed the call and subdue the enemy, the more quickly we will insure that freedom shall not disappear from the earth.

TIPS FROM THE TROOPERS: The Missouri Highway Patrol troopers do a great deal of driving in all types of weather. Through their experiences they have accumulated a vast amount of knowledge pertaining to the safe operation of motor vehicles. The troopers offer these tips for safer driving on ice and snow:

1. Before you go anywhere be sure you can see. Remove all snow and ice from windows. Driving is no time to play "peek-a-boo."
2. Plan ahead. Slow down well ahead of crossroads. Heavy traffic at intersections packs and polishes ice and snow to a dangerous glaze.
3. Test your brakes when out of traffic to get the feel of the road.
4. Whenever possible, avoid driving on highways with hills and curves when there is ice and snow. If you have a choice, take a route that has fewer hills and curves even though it is of greater distance.

5. Beware of ice spots on bridges and in shady spots on the highway. Many times they are slick even when the rest of the road is clear.

6. Pump your brakes when stopping. This will give you better steering and stopping control.

7. Watch ahead for traffic tie-ups. When vehicles are stalled on a hill and blocking traffic, stop where there is good traction, (either on a downgrade or on level), and wait for the traffic to clear. You will then be able to get a good moving start and to keep going.

8. Keep tire chains in the trunk of your car, not in the garage, and put them on when conditions warrant.

9. Put a bag of sand and a shovel in the trunk for use in an emergency.

10. Use seat belts. This safety tip holds true in all types of weather.

NEW YORK (AP) — What is worse than falling in love? Going on a diet.

A person in love is usually only a nuisance to himself—or perhaps to one other person, his beloved. But anyone on a diet is a nuisance to nearly everyone.

That's why all the world may love a lover, but no one in history has ever been stirred to build a monument to a dieter.

Food is all he can think about or talk about. Instead of greeting you with "What's new?" he asks: "What did you have for breakfast this morning?"

They say misery loves company, and many think dieters should be isolated from the rest of humanity during their ordeal—perhaps to a lonely mountain top or a desert.

But since at any given time about a fourth of all Americans over 30 are dieting, or pretending to be, this idea is impractical. It might be simpler to exile the nondieters. In our present abundant, affluent society it would appear that they are the ones who are abnormal.

In any case, lumping the dieters together is no answer.

For example, I have been nearly seven weeks on the annual diet I start at the beginning of each year. It wrecks my day to meet another dieter for he is sure to inquire how much I lost last week.

"Six and one-eighth ounces," I reply.

"Well, I lost 3½ pounds," he chortles. "You want to know how I did it?"

"No."

"Well, I did it by having nothing but pomegranate juice and raw sauerkraut. Why don't you try it?"

Each guy has a different success story, an easy remedy. One melts his avoirdupois off by eating nothing but radishes and fried squash. Another does it with goat cheese and broiled duck eggs. Still another thins down with a mixture of mineral oil and mashed mangoes.

There is a scientific theory that eating food high in calories is what tends to make you chubby. But this is only partly true.

As a veteran of scores of diets, I think there are only two general rules that are really helpful in trying to slim down:

1. Never eat at all when hungry.

2. When not hungry, eat only foods you genuinely despise.

If this program doesn't work, you might as well relax and enjoy your fat.

GLOBE-TROTTER SALESMAN Be a top salesman -- and see the world!

This doesn't mean that the salesman in question is taking his bag of samples to the far corners of the globe. But it does describe an incentive to produce that has been found highly rewarding by more and more enterprises.

Numerous winners of sales incentive contests and their wives are spending vacations overseas, earned as rewards for selling their quotas of refrigerators, air conditioners, automobiles, insurance, and many other kinds of products and services. More than 100 U.S. volume manufacturers now regularly use incentive travel, and the growth rate is accelerating at about 10 per cent a year. These major employers have found that travel is the most alluring incentive to spur sales -- better than cash, cars or other prizes. And numbers of companies mix business sessions in with the fun and sight-seeing. They have found that vacation spots are ideal for training because of their relaxed and informal atmosphere. Another factor, intangible but highly important, should be mentioned here. Travel -- and especially travel in strange and foreign lands -- is an educational influence. We may not know it, because it is painless and subtle. But a glimpse, no matter how fleeting, into the way of life of other people broadens the mind and provides new perspectives. It makes for a wiser and more productive and able human being.

A FORM OF BLACKMAIL The Negro preacher had successfully concealed the fact that he had served a term in prison, but long years of upright living had not destroyed his fear of exposure.

One Sunday on rising to begin his sermon his heart sank on seeing in one of the front pews a former cellmate.

Quick thinking was necessary. turning the Bible around a couple of times to gain time, he fixed his eye on the stranger and delivered himself slowly and impressively as follows: "Ah takes mah text dis mawnin' from de sixty-fifth chapter and de fo' hundulth v'se ob de Gospel ob Saint John, which says, 'Dem as sees me and knows me, an' says nothin', dem will Ah see later.'"

Two days after the ad appeared the mother asked anxiously: "Well, any answers?" "Just one," sighed the daughter.

"Who wrote it?" demanded Mama. "I'd rather not say," said the daughter.

"But this was my idea," shouted Mama, "and I insist upon knowing." "All right, if you insist," said the daughter wearily. "It was

WASHINGTON -- Only Senate leaders are furnished government limousines; all other senators, including committee chairmen, are obliged to provide their own transportation.

There is, however, one curious exception. Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., drives a sleek, black jet 88 Oldsmobile thoughtfully provided by a Connecticut contractor.

The car carries the Connecticut license tag, "U.S. Sen. 1." But the registration is made out to Dunbar Associates, Inc., of 54 Pane Road, Newington, Conn.

The Senator has been driving the Dunbar company car ever since July, 1964. He wrote a thank-you letter, carefully marked "personal," to David Dunbar, the company president, on July 23, 1964.

"I want you to know how deeply grateful I am to you for the wonderful assistance which you have given me," wrote Dodd. "The car is just great, and it sure gets me around."

Soon after the car arrived, Dodd began scouting around for government contracts for Dunbar Associates. He made inquiries at the Atomic Energy Commission and Government Printing Office.

RETURN FAVOR Thanks in part to his intervention, Dunbar was awarded the contract to close down the Connecticut Advanced Nuclear Engineering laboratory.

The Senator was less successful, however, with the public printer. He turned this project over to Gerry Zeiller, a former assistant, who investigated whether Dunbar could get the contract to move the government printing office to a new building.

Last June, Zeiller received a note from the Senator's private secretary, Doreen Moloney.

"Dave Dunbar called and wanted me to check with the Senator about setting up a luncheon next week with Jim Harrison of Government Printing," wrote Miss Moloney. "The Senator said to check with you, and I suppose if you give the

So Hartke got together with some of his colleagues and cooked up a birthday party. So many senators showed up that they could have had a quorum call around the cake. . . . This column recently reported that congressmen had been holding their annual golf tournament at the fashionable Breakers Hotel in Palm Beach, Fla., despite the fact that the Hotel barred Jewish guests. The story implied that Rep. Edward Derwinski, R-Ill., who arranged the 1965 tournament, wasn't concerned. This column has now learned that Derwinski wrote to the hotel, threatening to cancel the tournament unless the Hotel stopped discriminating against Jews. We are happy to clarify the story.

A TELEPHONE CALL

A friend related that recently, in a city not his home, he looked up the telephone number of a world-famous airline in the yellow pages of the directory. He dialed the number, and half a dozen times got a busy signal. Then, on the seventh attempt, to his surprise he was connected with a special operator. She informed him that the number he had been dialing had been changed and gave him the new number.

He dialed that number. A recorded voice came on the line to say, "Blank Airlines information and reservations are busy. An operator will be with you in a moment." He held on and heard this message, repeated at intervals of a few seconds, a total of nineteen times. (He counted.)

Then a man's voice answered. Unfortunately, he was not able to give my friend the information he wanted, which was the time at which he should leave by bus for the airport in order to catch his plane.

His purpose in relating this was not to place blame on any individual or any business. He simply cited this as part of the organized confusion which wastes so much time and effort for all of us every day.

We are continually being told that the age of the computer has arrived and that it is going to work great changes for the better in our lives. This may be true. But some may fear that computers will only make more perfect the organization of the confusion which hampers so many of our activities--and the end result will be complete rather than partial confusion! Gen. Eisenhower Charges Munition Contract Awards Being Affected by Political Influence.

Washington, D. C.: -- Only the genial grin and occasional reports from some golf course have it appear that the old soldier, Dwight D. Eisenhower, is far from the battle. He is not.

Just the other day the General dispatched a letter which revealed his concern over the necessary escalation of the "industrial-military complex." The unpublished letter disclosed deep concern over what he believes to be the danger of the American way of life becoming based on and dependent upon armaments economy.

He perceived danger in the bitter competition between munitions makers and entire communities for defense contracts and facilities.

He decried what he called the seeking of political favors from unnamed forces, perhaps somewhere in the Pentagon or other labyrinth of government.

And he charged that such political favors were being granted.

This communication, which recognizes the need for smashing Communist aggression, was sent on Feb. 7, 1966, from Indio, Calif., to the American Veterans Committee (AVC), a select group who also sees the need for confrontation with Communist totalitarianism.

The missive is addressed to Stanley Karson, chairman of AVC's Special Committee on the Military - Industrial Complex.

Events leading to President Eisenhower's writing such a note at the height of the Vietnamese war began some six months ago at an AVC convention in Atlantic City. There, a knowledgeable, philosophical though pragmatic, committee leader, Gus Tyler, assistant to the president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, said there now must be a new dimension of concentrated activity.

He believes the AVC should become the civilian watchdog of the military establishment. The AVC, though no longer a mass organization, has in its cabinet members, governors, senators, representatives and many writers as well as business and labor leaders.

The Committee is anti-Communist. In this troubled world it recognizes the need for a military establishment -- even an expanding one.

In effect, what Mr. Tyler said was: We are not pacifists. We know there must be a military establishment, but we don't want it to overrun our civilian society.

So, at his suggestion, the AVC set up a committee to look into the efficacy and democracy of the draft and thorough representation on the boards; military justice and education; programs of information. The Committee, which long ago fought back Communist infiltration and ousted its would-be captors, wanted a positive program and democratic thinking in the industrial-military complex. The phrase was originally Dwight D. Eisenhower's. He amazed the land with it in his farewell speech, Jan. 17, 1961.

The committee had an imposing task studying an awesome phenomenon. The Pentagon employs over 3.5 million directly. The supporting civilian defense production mechanism reportedly now employs over 10 million directly and indirectly.

A few weeks ago the AVC subcommittee distributed copies of President Eisenhower's 1961 speech. And out of courtesy to the General, Mr. Karson wrote a polite note so informing him.

To the surprise of the AVC staff, Dwight D. Eisenhower replied with a startling letter encouraging their work. It has never been published.

It should be on the record, for it bluntly says that at this very moment when young men are slogging it through explosive elephant grass and rice "paddies," shoulder-deep in brackish water and enemy guerrillas, military contracts are being let to clients of powerful lobbyists and to political favorites.

" . . . I am glad to know that your organization is devoting time and energy to studying the ramifications of what I . . . called the military - industrial complex," writes the General.

"The influence of tremendous munition expenditures is felt in every phase of our national life -- millions today owe their prosperity, indeed their livelihood, to this kind of production. Communities and manufacturers compete for new munitions facilities or contracts; to obtain such favorable situations, political influence is sought and often given."

"Manifestly, all of us should be alert to the possibility that munitions production could become so important that whole communities will look upon it as a way of life. We may forget that these expenditures are merely for the purpose of defending ourselves and what we now have."

"Our struggle against world communism involves military, economic and spiritual factors. Each is equally important, and it is up to us to see that we maintain the necessary strength in each and the power balance among the three. Sincerely, Dwight Eisenhower."

These are the words of a General of the armies, the commander at Normandy, the 34th President, as well as the wise squire of Gettysburg.

They are words of warning in this era of what may be a final conflict. To ignore these words and therefore not to draw from the old soldier in his full knowledge, would be to betray the kids we're sending over there, some of whom won't be back even when its

Girl Scouts Stress Safety Through Daisy

The Girl Scouts of the Cotton Boll Council and the Otahki District are working on a joint project to stress safety in driving. It is called the Safety Daisy.

Most accidents happen because people forget to be careful. They need someone or something to remind them. The special reminder, the Safety Daisy, will be given to people to keep in their cars -- on the dashboard, by the rear vision mirror or somewhere they can see it to remind them to drive safely. It will remind them to buckle seat belts, obey traffic laws, heed road signs, and all the other things that help them to drive safely. The Girl Scouts hope they will develop a greater safety consciousness and a concern for safe driving habits through their Safety Daisies.

Each of the approximately 5,000 Girl Scouts in the two councils is making four daisies to be presented to parents, neighbors and friends. This means that between 15,000 and 20,000 adults will be presented with Safety Daisies at approximately the same time on Safety Daisy Day, March 1.

The Girl Scouts ask that when you are presented with your Safety Daisy, please put it in your car and each time you see it let it remind you of the Girl Scouts' concern for your safety.

HELLO! For the last two weeks something different has gone on at our place. My father had never had a bowling ball in his hands and he decided he wanted to try and see if he could do it. Well he did it all right, his first game was 114 and the second was 129. This week he rolled 128 and 112. I don't want him to bowl too many games at once until he gets all his strength back after having been so sick. Mother watches and is going to have to learn to keep score for us.

The Tuesday Morning Housewives League had a mix up week before last to get it straightened out, the half of the league that bowled last time just bowled jackpot this week to let the other teams catch up. We were using the same jackpot handicap we will use in the City Association Tournament next week. Marjorie Moll could do nothing wrong and she took first game with a 180 scratch and with handicap it was 220. According to our rules no one could win more than one game but could win total.

Lucille Miller came along and took second with a 220 scratch -- 272 handicap and that game Marj also rolled 215 scratch. Betty Dawson took third game with a 169 scratch and 221 handicap. Marj rolled 593 scratch series, and of course she took high series handicap with a 713. Betty Heath was also bowling with us and she picked up the 6-7 split. Other splits picked up Joyce Dillender 5-7, Brenda Ballard 4-10, Boots Schrader 4-5-7, Mavis Riley 2-7, Virginia Dixon 5-10, Iona Taylor 5-10, Helen Oliver 5-6, Doris Pearson 8-10, Kay Jackson 5-8-10, Lil Accord 4-5, Hildred Poole 2-7, Evelyn Agnew 6-7-10, Aleta Pinkstaff 7-9-10, Marj Moll 8-10. ## Ensors Observe 64th Wedding Anniversary Today

Today marks the 64th wedding anniversary of the Rev. and Mrs. Jonathan O. Ensor, 211 South Prairie. They were married on Feb. 16, 1902, in St. John, Kans. Mrs. Ensor is the former Miss Dessa Woodside.

The Rev. Mr. Ensor is a retired Methodist minister after having served in that capacity for 60 years. The Ensors are the parents of three children, two having preceded them in death, while the third child, a son, the Rev. Wendell Ensor, is a Methodist minister. They also have five grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. The Ensors returned recently from a four-week visit to California. While there they visited their son and his family in Pacific Grove where he is pastor of the First Methodist church. They also visited Mrs. Ensor's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Hunt of Whittier.

The Rev. Mr. Ensor enjoys raising a flower and vegetable garden each year. Mrs. Ensor tends their house and is active in church work.

There are no birds in California's redwood trees. These trees secrete a substance deadly to the insects upon which the birds feed.

Girl Scouts Stress Safety Through Daisy

The Girl Scouts of the Cotton Boll Council and the Otahki District are working on a joint project to stress safety in driving. It is called the Safety Daisy.

Most accidents happen because people forget to be careful. They need someone or something to remind them. The special reminder, the Safety Daisy, will be given to people to keep in their cars -- on the dashboard, by the rear vision mirror or somewhere they can see it to remind them to drive safely. It will remind them to buckle seat belts, obey traffic laws, heed road signs, and all the other things that help them to drive safely. The Girl Scouts hope they will develop a greater safety consciousness and a concern for safe driving habits through their Safety Daisies.

Each of the approximately 5,000 Girl Scouts in the two councils is making four daisies to be presented to parents, neighbors and friends. This means that between 15,000 and 20,000 adults will be presented with Safety Daisies at approximately the same time on Safety Daisy Day, March 1.

The Girl Scouts ask that when you are presented with your Safety Daisy, please put it in your car and each time you see it let it remind you of the Girl Scouts' concern for your safety.

Keglers Korner

By Hildred Poole
HELLO! For the last two weeks something different has gone on at our place. My father had never had a bowling ball in his hands and he decided he wanted to try and see if he could do it. Well he did it all right, his first game was 114 and the second was 129. This week he rolled 128 and 112. I don't want him to bowl too many games at once until he gets all his strength back after having been so sick. Mother watches and is going to have to learn to keep score for us.

The Tuesday Morning Housewives League had a mix up week before last to get it straightened out, the half of the league that bowled last time just bowled jackpot this week to let the other teams catch up. We were using the same jackpot handicap we will use in the City Association Tournament next week. Marjorie Moll could do nothing wrong and she took first game with a 180 scratch and with handicap it was 220. According to our rules no one could win more than one game but could win total.

Lucille Miller came along and took second with a 220 scratch -- 272 handicap and that game Marj also rolled 215 scratch. Betty Dawson took third game with a 169 scratch and 221 handicap. Marj rolled 593 scratch series, and of course she took high series handicap with a 713. Betty Heath was also bowling with us and she picked up the 6-7 split.

Other splits picked up Joyce Dillender 5-7; Brenda Ballard 4-10; Boots Schrader 4-5-7; Mavis Riley 2-7, Virginia Dixon 5-10, Iona Taylor 5-6-10, Helen Oliver 5-6, Doris Pearson 8-10, Kay Jackson 5-8-10, Lil Acord 4-5, Hildred Poole 2-7, Evelyn Agnew 6-7-10, Aleta Pinkstaff 7-9-10, Marj Moll 8-10.

Lou Couch 9-8, Judy Throgmorton 3-10, Alice Patterson 6-7-10, Lou Meunier 6-7, Mary Phelps 5-10, Janet Meadows 5-7.

Whitson and McFerren Unanimous Selections to All-New Madrid Conference Team

ALL-NEW MADRID COUNTY CONFERENCE SELECTIONS

Stan Whitson and Linnes McFerren were unanimous choices by the coaches of the New Madrid Conference in this season's all-league quintet released today. Joining them on the first team are Lynn Long of Lilbourn, Jim Pearson of New Madrid, and Tommy Hicks of Matthews. Balloting was done by all the coaches in the conference. Each submitted an all-conference team made up of boys not on his own squad.

Not only did the Howardville Hawks land one player on the first team but had three players named to special mention to the first, as this is a great accomplishment for the Hawks.

Every team in the county got at least one honorable mention.

STAN WHITSON -- Averaging better than 30 points per game this year in all games played. A cat-like, smooth operator under the board, he has every move in the book. He hits very well for outside to add to his versatility. A possible All-District, All-Class S, and All-State selection at the end of the year, Stan rebounds well for his size.

LYNN LONG -- Probably the most deceptive guard in the state, McFerren, at 5-11, spearheads the Howardville fast break attack and averages between 15 and 20 assist a game along with a 17.4 points per game, will make some college a fine ball player.

JIM PEARSON -- The "cool headed ball player" on Lilbourn's attack this season. Lynn, only a junior, has fine prospects as being one of the area's top ball players for the coming year. At six foot, Lynn can defend the taller man under the goal as well as out and this is what makes him such a fine ball player.

TOMMY HICKS -- Averaging around 17 points per game to set the pace for the Matthew Pirates. An excellent shot and floorman, Tommy plays both post and forward and seldom misses his deadly short jump shot. He is aggressive on the boards.

JIM PEARSON -- New Madrid sophomore sensation, has two more years in high school sports and will prove to be one of the more outstanding players in the state in a few years. Jim, at only six foot is very aggressive on the boards.

The boys who made this All-New Madrid Conference team can be proud of their accomplishment, as each boy has congratulations from the coaches and the area fans for a fine job well done.

MOUNT MOREHOUSE, Wis. AP - A 15-year-old basketball player collapsed during a high school practice scrimmage Tuesday and died of what authorities said was a heart attack that couldn't be explained. The freshman athlete, Karl Baertschy, suffered an apparent dizzy spell, his coach, Larry Dangerfield, said. "He just walked over to the side and leaned against the bleachers and collapsed," said the coach. An autopsy attributed death to a heart seizure, Coroner Clyde Chamberlain Jr. of Madison, Wis., said. "His death was apparently the result of an irregular heart beat which cannot be explained."

Wildcats Win 25th Game

LILBOURN -- Bloomfield, the number one team in southeast Missouri split games with the host Panthers here last night with Lilbourn upsetting the Wildcats "B" team 38-31 and the "A" team dropping a 58-35 decision to Bloomfield. Bloomfield jumped out to an early lead and was never behind in the contest. The Wildcats held a 11-4 first period lead and went on from that moment of play for the win. Lynn Long, Panther leading scorer and defensive specialist, who had been out for a week after suffering from an infection, came back last night but was too weak to see much action. Bloomfield with Don Underwood, and Andy Bullinger with injuries suited out only six players and had help from the "B" team with Swindell and Williams, helping strengthen the bench. Don did get to see some action and played a fine game as he scored 13 points with six of these coming when Lilbourn was threatening in the first period. Phil Johnson, played his usual fine game as he scored 16 points and collected nine rebounds for a fine night's work for a man only 5-9. Mike Wise, contributed to the Wildcats victory with 12 points and 14 rebounds. Brad Blankenship, led the Panthers in the scoring column with 11 points followed by Gee, Long, and Bowen with six points each. Tommy Gee, played fine defense as he had the assignment to guard Mike Wise. Gee got into foul trouble and had to take a breather, Mike had only five points at that stage of the game.

Whitson and McFerren Unanimous Selections to All-New Madrid Conference Team

Stan Whitson and Limes McFerren were unanimous choices by the coaches of the New Madrid Conference in this season's all-league quintet released today. Joining them on the first team are Lynn Long of Lilbourn, Jim Pearson of New Madrid, and Tommy Hicks of Matthews.

Balloting was done by all the coaches in the conference. Each submitted an all-conference team made up of boys not on his own squad.

Not only did the Howardville Hawks land one player on the first team but had three players named to special mention to the first, as this is a great accomplishment for the Hawks.

Every team in the county got at least one honorable mention. STAN WHITSON -- Averaging better than 30 points per game this year in all games played. A cat-like, smooth operator under the board, he has every move in the book. He hits very well for outside to add to his versatility. A possible All-District, All-Class S, and All-State selection at the end of the year, Stan rebounds well for his size.

LIMNES MCFERREN -- Probably the most deceptive guard in the state, McFerren, at 5-11, spearheads the Howardville fast break attack and averages between 15 and 20 assist a game along with a 17.4 points per game, will make some college a fine ball player.

LYNN LONG -- The "cool headed ball player" on Lilbourn's attack this season. Lynn, only a junior, has fine prospects as being one of the area's top ball players for the coming year. At six foot, Lynn can defend the taller man under the goal as well as out and this is what makes him such a fine ball player.

TOMMY HICKS -- Averaging around 17 points per game to set the pace for the Matthews Pirates. An excellent shot and floorman, Tommy plays both post and forward and seldom misses his deadly short jump shot. He is aggressive on the boards.

JIM PEARSON -- New Madrid sophomore sensation, has two more years in high school sports and will prove to be one of the more outstanding players in the state in a few years. Jim, at only six foot is very aggressive on the boards, MOUNT HOREB, Wis. AP -- A 15-year-old basketball player collapsed during a high school practice scrimmage Tuesday and died of what authorities said was a heart attack that couldn't be explained.

The freshman athlete, Karl Baertschy suffered an apparent dizzy spell, his coach, Larry Danglerfield, said. "He just walked over to the side and leaned against the bleachers and collapsed," said the coach. An autopsy attributed death to a heart seizure. Coroner Clyde Chamberlain Jr. of Madison, Wis., said, "His death was apparently the result of an irregular heart beat which cannot be explained."

Wildcats Win 25th Game

LILBOURN -- Bloomfield, the number one team in southeast Missouri split games with the host Panthers here last night with Lilbourn upsetting the Wildcats "B" team 38-31 and the "A" team dropping a 58-35 decision to Bloomfield.

Bloomfield jumped out to an early lead and was never behind in the contest. The Wildcats held a 11-4 first period lead and went on from that moment of play for the win.

Lynn Long, Panther leading scorer and defensive specialist, who had been out for a week after suffering from an infection, came back last night but was too weak to see much action.

Bloomfield with Don Underwood, and Andy Bullinger with injuries suited out only six players and had help from the "B" team with Swindell and Williams, helping strengthen the bench. Don did get to see some action and played a fine game as he scored 13 points with six of these coming when Lilbourn was threatening in the first period.

Phil Johnson, played his usual fine game as he scored 16 points and collected nine rebounds for a fine night's work for a man only 5-9.

Mike Wise, contributed to the Wildcats victory with 12 points and 14 rebounds.

Brad Blankenship, led the Panthers in the scoring column with 11 points followed by Gee, Long, and Bowen with six points each.

Tommy Gee, played fine defense as he had the assignment to guard Mike Wise. Gee got into foul trouble and had to take a breather, Mike had only five points at that stage of the game.

ThreeHour Space Walk in Works

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A spectacular flight plan has been drawn up for America's next Gemini space adventure calling for a "walk in space" of nearly three hours — twice around the world and twice as long as most observers expected.

During his lengthy stroll, Gemini 8 astronaut David R. Scott will cling to the rear of the two-man capsule, looking like a man who almost missed his street car, while command pilot Neil A. Armstrong fires maneuvering rockets on the spacecraft to uncouple and couple with another satellite.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is now in the process of deciding whether the unmanned target will be an Agena rocket or a substitute satellite, called an Alternate Target Docking Adapter.

The space agency wanted to go with the Agena, but an Agena engine failed in a test chamber last Saturday and muddled plans. NASA has suspended further testing until a cause has been determined and corrected. Officials would prefer to use the Agena because it has a motor to maneuver it around, which the ATDA does not.

Whichever target is used, it will be launched by an Atlas rocket from a pad 6,000 feet away from Gemini launch complex 19 at Cape Kennedy. If it achieves a proper orbit, Air Force Maj. Scott and Armstrong, a civilian, will rocket into space about one hour and 40 minutes later.

The launch is expected to occur one month from today, March 15.

Scott and Armstrong plan to catch up with their target satellite on the fifth or sixth orbit, then slowly push the nose of Gemini 8 into a docking collar on the target satellite, firmly coupling the capsule to it. Both the Agena and ATDA have this collar.

If the Agena is used, the astronauts will use controls inside Gemini 8 to fire a small Agena propulsion unit. Delicate instruments will then measure the thrust the Agena provides.

On the morning of the second day, Scott is scheduled to get out of the capsule and maneuver his way to the rear. There, he will put on a special backpack with life-supporting oxygen bottles and other equipment inside.

After some maneuvering with a hand-held jet gun, the astronaut will cling to hand and foot grips on the rear of the spacecraft, sources said, while Armstrong fires small rockets on the spacecraft to back Gemini 8 away from its target satellite.

The astronauts then plan to fly in formation with the satellite — at a distance of 10 or 15 feet — with Scott "swimming" in space, taking pictures and possibly touching the satellite. The life-line connecting him to Gemini 8 will permit Scott to go 75 to 100 feet away.

Scott is expected to hang onto the rear of Gemini 8 again while Armstrong fires the spacecraft's maneuvering rockets to rendezvous and dock with the target satellite. Altogether,

Scott will be outside the capsule about three hours.

Inside the capsule again, having left his backpack and life-line out in space, he and Armstrong will rendezvous and dock with the target vehicle five or six times, approaching from various angles and distances.

After 12 to 14 hours of experiments on the third day, the astronauts are to splash down in the Atlantic — completing a mission of nearly 72 hours.

Q—Why do all snakes look as though they were just staring at a person?

A—Snakes have no movable eyelids and, therefore, cannot blink their eyes.

Q—What president of the United States later became a senator?

A—Andrew Johnson.

SUNSHINE AND SHADOWS
Don't be afraid of the shadows
Dawns light will chase them away.
Just as the coldness of winter wanes with the warmth of may.

The rising sun may greet you or clouds may darken the sky.
Natures whims are many—
We can only wonder why.

Yet nature is ever fair minded by the waters lie the sands;
Tipping the scales of justice for the betterment of man.

Cling to your dreams of the future
And to your ideals hold fast.
Don't be afraid of the shadows,
Only till dawn can they last.

Missouri Press Report by Edward V. Long

New evidence of government invasion of privacy came to light when my Senate investigating subcommittee held public hearings on wiretapping and snooping in San Francisco.

We discovered that the Internal Revenue Service installed wiretaps in public telephone booths throughout the San Francisco Bay area. Innocent people who used those phone booths had their conversations monitored.

When asked about his wiretapping activities one former U.S. narcotics agent admitted "It was routine with us. I've done it hundreds of times."

Even though wiretapping is illegal under California law, and illegal under Federal law, Federal and local officials in San Francisco insisted that wiretapping is necessary even though it invades the privacy of many citizens. Yet when I asked each agent what results he was getting from his wiretapping and eavesdropping efforts, each one admitted that wiretaps and bugging devices catch very few law breakers.

Modern Americans are increasingly exposed, peered at, inquired about and spied upon. More and more, our right of privacy -- guaranteed by the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution, is crumbling in the clutches of police state tactics. My subcommittee is more determined than ever to put a stop to these dangerous practices.

Congress has passed a new G.I. bill of rights to give education and home buying opportunities to American boys serving at least six months after January 31, 1955.

This is good news for those 98,000 Missouri boys who, by summer this year, will have returned to civilian life since the Korean War. The latest figures show there are some 1,800 Missouri boys in all branches of the service now stationed in Viet Nam.

The new G.I. bill passed by 99-0 in the Senate after an amendment was adopted to extend benefits to those veterans who wish to complete high school training. In addition to payments ranging from $100 to $150 per month for veterans attending college, the new bill guarantees home loans up to $7,500 and makes direct loans of up to $17,500 where private financing is not available. The new program goes into effect June 1, 1966.

President Johnson has just sent to Congress a proposal for a new five-year Food for Peace program to help combat hunger in countries which are willing to pick themselves up by their own bootstraps.

If enacted, the proposal would mean increased demand for Missouri farm products. Meanwhile, the President has directed his Science Advisory Committee to come up with new ways of adding nutritional value to U.S. food exports.

Missouri farmers have for years played an important part in making the Food for Peace program possible.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife received a letter from her cousin last week containing some shocking news. Their grandfather, who was 72 years old, choked to death at a family dinner.

The old man had had several cocktails and was in high spirits. He was eating a piece of steak when suddenly he stopped talking and began to cough. Nobody paid any attention until it became apparent that he was gasping for breath. By the time they realized what was happening he was dead.

I have never heard of anyone else who died this way. My wife claims she has read of similar tragedies. Can she be right? If so, please tell us how (or if) such a tragedy can be prevented. -- STUNNED

Dear Stunned: Several hundred people die every year in this grotesque and unnecessary manner.

I consulted with my medical authorities and learned that in the vast majority of cases the victim who chokes to death on food has ill-fitting dentures which makes proper chewing of food difficult. Usually, there's another factor -- too much alcohol.

Dear Ann Landers: What can I do about an uncle who is in his 60's and will not take his eyes or his hands off our sweet, 21-year-old daughter?

Whenever he is in this girl's presence he wants to hug and kiss her. He pulls her onto his lap and refuses to let her alone. All this goes on right under his wife's nose. She acts as if she doesn't see a thing.

Our daughter does not like to be pawed and mauled by this old geezer but she doesn't know how to discourage him gracefully. She asked me how to deal with the problem. Can you suggest something? -- RUNNING OUT OF PATIENCE

Dear Running: A 21-year-old should not need her mother's help in fending off either old elks or young bucks. Since she asked, tell her to discourage uncle the same way she would discourage any other eight-handed idiot. And the approach needn't be "graceful."

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a senior in high school -- no brain, just an average student who works harder than most of the kids I know. My college boards were pretty low. This worries me a lot.

Almost every night I'm up until 11:30 or midnight doing homework, so you can see I'm not just lying around waiting for some college to beg me to enroll.

The competition to get into schools today is wild. We are under terrific pressure. So please, parents, don't add to the pressure by telling us about a nut who got into Harvard or a moron who made Yale.

If I sound like a nasty kid I apologize. I'm not always like this. I've got "collegenerves." I guess. Thanks for letting me get this out of my system. -- TYPICAL SENIOR

Dear Typ: I'm glad you wrote. It gives me an opportunity to get something out of MY system. I'm fed up to here with parents who make their kids feel like cases of arrested development if they don't make the Ivy League, Yale and Harvard can't take everybody and it's just as well, because not everybody BELONGS at Yale or Harvard.

There are many excellent small colleges who want students. I hope parents will urge seniors to consult with their

Viet Cong Terror Destroys Order

Editor's Note -- The failure to put together a nationwide working political system is a big reason for communist control of large areas of South Viet Nam. An outstanding cause has been Viet Cong terror tactics.

By HUGH MULLIGAN
PHU THANH, South Viet Nam AP -- Just before moonrise on a sultry, star-bright night, the Communist cadre slipped into the village.

They worked silently and set up loudspeakers outside the house of Le Van Tien.

The message that they broadcast: Unless Le resigned his appointment as platoon leader of the new government outpost on the banks of the Cai Sao Canal, his wife would be kidnapped and his aging parents murdered.

The Cai Sao outpost had been completed a few months before by the South Viet Nam government, with the help of American funds and building materials, to protect this key rice growing village in the Mekong Delta from being overrun by the Viet Cong.

It had sturdy, four-foot thick walls, and was manned by a well-trained, well-equipped popular force platoon. The little barbed-wire enclosed fort was considered a model defense against guerrilla attack. But it had trouble keeping a platoon leader.

The first was Le's father-in-law, who had fought the Japanese, the French and the Communists. Two days after taking over, his body was found floating in the canal. Le's older brother assumed command.

Two months later, Le's brother drove to Vinh Long, the province capital, on his motor scooter and was never seen again.

Two hundred miles farther north, Dang Huu Hong, chief of the jungle province of Quang Duc, went for a ride in his jeep.

Dang Huu Hong was a gracious, urbane man, brave too. He had been a high school principal in Tay Son, 65 miles from Hanoi, before the Communists took over and he fled south to fight against them.

One burst of a .50-caliber machine gun cut him down. It was hidden in the depression of a hill, where the road wound out of the 100-foot high trees into a clearing.

On another day in another village, Dak Pek, on the border of Laos high in the Annamite Mountains, 50 rounds of mortar fire fell on the little red school house built by the American special forces team. The school teachers fled. Then the little tin-roofed church was set on fire. The priests fled. At Song Be, another special forces camp, guerrilla infiltrators broke into the dispensary and shot up the wounded. The doctors and nurses fled.

Viet Cong terror. Eliminate those in authority, anyone whom the people respect: doctors, nurses, priests, teachers.

Early in January, Tu Chung, an anti-Communist editorial writer on a pro-government Saigon newspaper, was gunned down after repeated threats against his life. On Jan. 8, John Haywood, a missionary with the Worldwide Evangelization Crusade, was machine gunned to death as he stepped from his station wagon on the highway between Da Nang and Hue. As the month ended, six members of a government psychological warfare team, returning from an inspection of village and hamlet information programs, were ambushed on a road 25 miles northwest of Saigon by gunmen wearing khaki uniforms.

In a single week in January, the South Vietnamese government logged 1,100 incidents of terror: Sabotage, village raids, kidnappings, bombs hurled at police barracks, bridges blown, village, hamlet and district leaders shot, buried alive or burned to death.

"Selective terror," American military spokesmen call it, hacking away gradually, constantly, determinedly at the people who can make a civilization click, make a government of the leaders in every walk of life. Those who wonder why the government in Saigon has trouble maintaining authority out in the provinces will find part of their answer here.

Since the Americans began pouring into South Viet Nam, incidents of violence against local officials have dropped sparingly, but the totals still are appalling.

In all, in 1965, there were 28,000 incidents of terror, resulting in more than 12,000 recorded kidnappings and killings.

Among South Viet Nam's 15,715,000 population, hard-lining, pro-Ho Chi Minh Communists probably number less than 200,000. Yet to stand up against them, in print, at a school desk, in a pulpit, requires extraordinary courage.

Missouri Press Report

by Edward V. Long

New evidence of government invasion of privacy came to light when my Senate investigating subcommittee held public hearings on wiretapping and snooping in San Francisco.

We discovered that the Internal Revenue Service installed wiretaps in public telephone booths throughout the San Francisco Bay area. Innocent people who used those phone booths had their conversations monitored.

When asked about his wiretapping activities one former U.S. narcotics agent admitted "It was routine with us. I've done it hundreds of times."

Even though wiretapping is illegal under California law, and illegal under Federal law, Federal and local officials in San Francisco insisted that wiretapping is necessary even though it invades the privacy of many citizens. Yet when I asked each agent what results he was getting from his wiretapping and eavesdropping efforts, each one admitted that wiretaps and bugging devices catch very few law breakers.

Modern Americans are increasingly exposed, peered at, inquired about and spied upon. More and more, our right of privacy -- guaranteed by the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution, is crumbling in the clutches of police state tactics. ## New Guidelines

To Aid Rent

Subsidy Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional advocates of federal rent subsidies were hopeful today that new guidelines would enable them to win the money to get the program started.

President Johnson asked Congress Monday to include in a supplemental appropriations bill the full $30 million authorized for the first year of the subsidy program.

He first made the request last year but Congress declined to vote any of the $30 million although it had authorized that sum in the big 1965 housing bill passed earlier in the session.

At the time the funds were turned down, there were charges at the Capitol that the proposed regulations for the program would allow comparatively well-off families to get the benefit of the subsidies.

Since that time the new Housing and Urban Development Department has prepared revised guidelines to limit strictly the incomes and assets of potential beneficiaries.

A spokesman said the company estimated the 1966 gross national product at $726 billion, instead of $714 billion predicted last November.

The revision was based on the possibility of a buildup in armed forces strength, the company said.

Preminger Survives Club Bout

By BOB THOMAS

How did Sinatra enter into this?
Lazar was agent for Truman Capote's new best seller, "In Cold Blood," which he sold for a million, more or less, to Columbia Pictures. Preminger said Lazar had promised to offer the book to Sinatra. Lazar denies this, and "round and round they go."

Preminger has long been portrayed as a contentious type, but he claimed this is a canard perpetuated by unscrupulous magazine writers.
"I am now 57 years old, and I have never before been hit by anyone," he announced.
Not even by an actor?
"Actors love me!" he declared. "Why shouldn't they? I make them look good."

War Could Alter Payment Balance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The imponderables of the Viet Nam conflict could produce an overall review by the Johnson administration this year of its balance of payments program.
Although the 1965 deficit at $13 billion was the lowest in eight years, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said higher than anticipated outflows of U.S. dollars because of Viet Nam could reverse this trend.
Fowler ruled out at a news conference Monday any mandatory controls to stem private investment abroad and said reduction of the deficit for 1965 was largely the result of the voluntary program initiated a year ago.

Off base arithmetic probably has caused more clamor by parents than any other facet of New Math. The complete bewilderment of uninitiated parents and their chagrin at being unable to assist youngsters with their homework has led some of them to condemn the method before they learned its benefits.

Modern Math was not developed to torture parents but to help youngsters. While parents may suffer, the kids take to it like ducks to water. Children have a real feeling of achievement when they master this new concept, which is just a small part of the total program.

Now let's tackle the mystery of off base numerals. Will the methods that we have always used still work? Must we learn a new method for each base? Can all four operations be performed in any base? Read this thrilling installment and find out.

Ideally we should memorize our number combinations for each base. For example here is the table of addition and multiplication facts for base 5.

TABLES FOR BASE 5
	0	1	2	3	4
0	0	1	2	3	4
1	1	2	3	4	10
2	2	3	4	10	11
3	3	4	10	11	12
4	4	10	11	12	13

	0	1	2	3	4
0	0	0	0	0	0
1	0	1	2	3	4
2	0	2	4	11	13
3	0	3	11	14	22
4	0	4	13	22	31

It would of course be cruel and unusual punishment to require students to memorize these tables and similar ones for other bases so we resort to another device. We think of our digit combinations in base 10 and then translate the result to the desired base. For example, in ordinary experience, 4 + 3 is always equal to 7. But if we were working a problem in base 5 we would translate the 7 to 12. That 12 is read "one, two, base 5". So 4 + 3 = 12 (base 5).

More Examples
Let us stick to base 5 for the next two examples.
4 x 3 = 12 (base 5) instead of 12 in (base ten)
11 - 4 = 2 (here we translate the 11 to 6 and think, 6 - 4 = 2)
If we change the base we keep using the same general idea.
Thus 4 + 3 = 11 (base 6) instead of 7 in (base ten)
Thus 4 x 3 = 20 (base 6) instead of 12 in (base ten)
So, when the students come home with some weird answers to arithmetic problems, they are simply writing the answers a new way.

If the problems are longer, the same general method is used. Let us examine an addition problem using base 5 numerals.

First add the ones column 4+2+3=9 which translates to 14 (base 5). Write the 4 and carry the 1 to the fives column.

Add the fives column 1+1+0+4=6, which translates to 11 (base 5). Write the 1 and carry the other 1

Add the remaining column 1+2+3=6, which translates to 11.

Here is a subtraction problem using base 5 numerals:

To subtract the ones column we must borrow from the fives column, making the top number 12 which translates to 7. 7 - 4 = 3. Write 3 in the answer. To subtract the fives column it is necessary to borrow again, making the top number 11 or 6. 6 - 2 = 4. Write the 4 in the answer.

Now examine a multiplication example using base 5 numerals.

Multiply 3 x 2 = 6 which becomes 11.
Write the 1 and carry 1. Multiply 3 x 1 = 3 plus 1 carried = 4.
Write the 4. Multiply 3 x 3 = 9 which becomes 14. Carry out the same procedure with the 4 as multiplier. Because the 4 is in the "fives" column the first product must be written in the fives column as shown.
Finally add the products. (Be careful to write the sum in base 5 numerals.)

In working a problem in long division we use exactly the same procedure that we use in ordinary arithmetic. The example below will look a little odd, but every step is an exact duplicate of the steps using everyday numbers.

32  $\overline{)1434}$
114
244
233
11 remainder

Long division is the most troublesome operation in arithmetic because it is a trial and error process. It is also the most troublesome when off base numerals are used.

It Makes Things Plain

Operations with fractions and the off base equivalent of the decimal point are investigated in some schools. Here the child is shown that in base 5 notation, .1 means 1/5. .01 means 1/25. .001 means 1/125, etc. This is in line with the interpretation of the decimal point in regular arithmetic. Many schools ignore this complication.

These operations are included in Modern Math for the purpose of clarifying and reinforcing the student's understanding of these arithmetic operations. The child will appreciate the versatility and simplicity of our methods after working with these different numerals.

Carrying, as used in addition, will be better appreciated by the student when he understands that he is not carrying 1 or 2 but rather 10 or 20. The zero is not necessary because of the place value of the column to which it is carried. Borrowing in subtraction is similarly illuminated when the student is aware of the fact that he is not borrowing 1 but is borrowing the base.

The examples above may not make this too clear, but in the classroom, where more time is available, proper emphasis is placed on this important concept. In teacher training, off base numbers have been used to impress prospective teachers with the difficulties facing youngsters learning arithmetic for the first time.

In all operations there are three basic difficulties. First is the number combinations themselves. The student must have memorized his number combinations. The second is to determine which numbers to combine, and the third is to know what to do with the result of the combination.

Analysis of a simple multiplication problem like 234 x 5 (base ten) may serve to untangle this statement. The student must know his multiplication tables before attempting the problem. He must then realize that he starts out by multiplying 5 x 4 and getting 20. Then comes the final step of writing the 0 of the product under the 5 of the multiplier, and carrying the 2.

Before Modern Math, these steps frequently were a matter of rote learning. The child did it because he was told to by recognized authority, not because he understood what was involved.

Preminger Survives Club Bout

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gladiator Otto Preminger is back at his job of producing movies and he looks none the worse for his wounds in the Battle of 21.
Preminger was the victim in last month's encounter in New York's fancy 21 Club, where a glass was thrown in his face by literary agent Irving (Swifty) Lazar.

"I knew I wasn't hurt badly," Preminger recalled, "even though they couldn't stop the flow of blood with eight towels."
Preminger commented on the altercation and other matters between phone calls; he is nota man to waste a minute. The reason for the battle is in dispute. Lazar claims Preminger made slighting remarks to
Mrs. Lazar.
Baldershi replies Preminger,
more or less. He declared the dispute centered on Frank Sinatra.

How did Sinatra enter into this?
Lazar was agent for Truman Capote's new best seller, "In Cold Blood," which he sold for a million, more or less, to Columbia Pictures. Preminger said Lazar had promised to offer the book to Sinatra. Lazar denies this, and "round and 'round they go."
Preminger has long been portrayed as a contentious type,
but he claimed this is a canard perpetuated by unscrupulous magazine writers.
"I am now 57 years old, and I have never before been hit by anyone," he announced.
"Actors love me!" he declared. "Why shouldn't they? I make them look good."

War Could Alter Payment Balance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The
imponderables of the Viet Nam conflict could produce an overall review by the Johnson administration this year of its balance of payments program.
Although the 1965 deficit at $13 billion was the lowest in eight years, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said higher than anticipated outflows of U.S. dollars because of Viet Nam could reverse this trend.
Fowler ruled out at a news conference Monday any mandatory controls to stem private investment abroad and said reduction of the deficit for 1965 was largely the result of the voluntary program initiated a year ago.

Operating Off Base Turns Rote Learning into Right Learning

By Prof. W. F. Lloyd
University of Tampa

Off base arithmetic probably has caused more clamor by parents than any other facet of New Math. The complete bewilderment of uninitiated parents and their chagrin at being unable to assist youngsters with their homework has led some of them to condemn the method before they learned its benefits.

Modern Math was not developed to torture parents but to help youngsters. While parents may suffer, the kids take it like ducks to water. Children have a real feeling of achievement when they master this new concept, which is just a small part of the total program.

Now let's tackle the mystery of off base numerals. Will the methods that we have always used still work? Must we learn a new method for each base? Can all four operations be performed in any base? Read this thrilling installment and find out.

Ideally we should memorize our number combinations for each base. For example here is the table of addition and multiplication facts for base 5.

TABLES FOR BASE 5
+	0	1	2	3	4
0	0	1	2	3	4
1	1	2	3	4	10
2	2	3	4	10	11
3	3	4	10	11	12
4	4	10	11	12	13

×	0	1	2	3	4
0	0	0	0	0	0
1	0	1	2	3	4
2	0	2	4	11	13
3	0	3	11	14	22
4	0	4	13	22	31

Long division is the most troublesome operation in arithmetic because it is a trial and error process. It is also the most troublesome when off base numbers are used.

It Makes Things Plain

Operations with fractions and the off base equivalent of the decimal point are investigated in some schools. Here the child is shown that in base 5 notation, .1 means 1/5. .01 means 1/25.
Thus 4 + 3 = 11 (base 5) instead of 7 in (base ten).
Thus 4 x 3 = 20 (base 5) instead of 12 in (base ten).

These operations are included in Modern Math for the purpose of clarifying and reinforcing the student's understanding of these arithmetic operations. The child will appreciate the versatility and simplicity of our methods after working with these different numbers.

Carrying, as used in addition, will be better appreciated by the student when he understands that he is not carrying 1 or 2 but rather 10 or 20. The zero is not necessary because of the place value of the column to which it is carried. Borrowing in subtraction is similarly illuminated when the student is aware of the fact that he is not borrowing 1 but is borrowing the base.

The examples above may not

Reports from Washington

Expansion of agricultural production in the United States is envisioned in the President's Message on Food for Freedom, in which he has recommended stepped-up shipments of food to countries where food needs are growing and self-help efforts are under way. The program also contemplates increased farm production in those countries, and through the elimination of the "surplus" concept in food aid, would assist in the continued expansion of markets for all American agricultural commodities.

"Food for Peace" and "War on Hunger" would thus become more and more slogans, and at the same time would reverse the trend of continually cutting acreage allotments and reducing production here at home. Already the Department of Agriculture has increased rice acreage allotments by 10 per cent, and is permitting expansion of soybean acreage on feed grain acres.

Beginning the week of February 14 the House Committee on Agriculture will begin hearings on the bill introduced by Chairman Cooley last month, which would make changes in Public Law 480, largely through which some 140 million tons of food have been moved during the last 10 years, to feed hungry people all over the world.

This bill seems to recognize a fact which Your Representative has been emphasizing for many years, that there is no surplus of food stuffs, but that we here in the United States where we have accumulated huge abundances, have not used these to the best advantage. For instance, we have continued through the years to spend our dollars for foreign aid, and some of these dollars have been used to purchase from other countries the same commodities which we have in abundance. I have always contended that in determining the needs of a country (and certainly this aid should be restricted to countries which we have every reason to believe are our friends) we should supply them with those essentials which we have in excess, rather than furnish dollars to be spent elsewhere for the same commodities. It has taken us a long time to learn this basic principle, but I think we are finally getting on the right track.

A most unusual thing occurred this past week, when both the House and Senate passed unanimously, by a roll call, and without a single dissenting vote, the so-called "Cold War" GI Bill, extending to peace-time veterans as well as veterans of the Vietnam war, educational, housing and hospital benefits, similar to the old GI bill under which veterans of World War II and the Korean war, have received benefits. This bill went beyond the recommendations of the President, as far as cost is concerned, but still less than some of the proponents had recommended, but most people agree it was a fair compromise.

Another unanimous vote occurred with the passage of a bill (H.R. 706), amending the Railway Labor Act to provide for the establishment of special adjustment boards, upon request either of representatives of employees or of carriers to resolve disputes otherwise referable to the National Railroad Adjustment Board, and to make all awards of such board final. This legislation is hoped to eliminate the huge backlog of disputes which might not have been resolved for years. A rather good sign when labor and management seem to agree.

Another compromise bill, dealing with a controversial issue, namely that of bank mergers, was passed under a "suspension of the rules", requiring a two-thirds majority. This bill was passed to clarify the question of anti-trust violations in bank mergers, and this also appears to have been a satisfactory compromise, in which I concurred.

While there appeared from the debate to be considerable controversy over the approval of participation of the U.S. in the Asian Development Bank, final passage under a "suspension of the rules", resulted in a vote of 293 yeas to 80 nays, considerably more than the necessary two-thirds. Under the bill the U.S. is authorized to participate to the extent of supplying up to $200 million of the billion dollar capital of the International Bank with Japan being one of the larger contributors along with the U.S. Other non-Asian countries participating in the bank are Great Britain, West Germany, Canada, and Italy.

Debate on the proposed repeal of Section 14 (b) in the Senate has ceased, and there will be no further efforts at this session to repeal this controversial section of the Taft Hartley law, under which individual states are permitted to legislate on right-to-work laws as some 19 have done. Two attempts to invoke cloture and cut off debate in the Senate failed this past week, with the proponents of the repeal being able to muster a bare majority, and far short of the necessary two-thirds vote to cut off debate. It would seem that this is one instance in which public opinion had its effect on action in the Senate, and you will be hearing a lot of demagoguing during the election debates this fall.

With many Republicans backing their districts for Lincoln Day addresses, there will be little legislation in either the House or Senate this week.

Your Representative expects to be back in the 10th District during the first week in March, on one of his periodic visits and will be visiting in many of the 15 counties. Those having some special problem might want to contact me.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 16, the 47th day of 1966. There are 318 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1804, the U.S. frigate Philadelphia ran aground and was captured while pursuing a pirate ship in Tripoli Harbor, Lt. Stephen Decatur, with only 75 men in a captured ketch, boarded the Philadelphia and set her afire. British Adm. Lord Nelson called it the most bold and daring act of the age.

On this date:

In 1846, the first Texas State Legislature met in Austin, the capital.

In 1871, the Franco-Prussian War ended, with the French defeated and the Prussians in control of the German Empire.

In 1918, the English Port of Dover was bombed by a German submarine.

Ten years ago -- President Dwight D. Eisenhower issued an executive order virtually exempting fathers and men 26 and older from the draft.

Five years ago -- A communications balloon was launched into orbit from Wallops Island, Va.

One year ago -- Three Negro men and a Canadian white woman were arrested on charges of plotting to destroy the Statue of Liberty, the Liberty Bell and the Washington Monument.

Teacher Wows Tots

CICERO, Ill. (AP) — Danny Bucins, 9, summed up what it's like to have a beauty queen for a teacher.

"Wow!"

Danny is one of 23 fourth-graders at Roosevelt Elementary School who five days a week attend class taught by Miss Judy Piorkowski, 22, a green-eyed blonde named Miss Photoflash of 1966 by the Chicago Press Photographers Association.

The pupils all indicated agreement with the photographers' choice when Miss Piorkowski walked into her classroom Monday.

"Our teacher is beautiful," read a message on the blackboard.

With her title, Miss Piorkowski received $1,000 and a new car.

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 16, the 47th day of 1966. There are 318 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1804, the U.S. frigate Philadelphia ran aground and was captured while pursuing a pirate ship in Tripoli Harbor, Lt. Stephen Decatur, with only 75 men in a captured ketch, boarded the Philadelphia and set her afire. British Adm. Lord Nelson called it the most bold and daring act of the age.

On this date

In 1846, the first Texas State Legislature met in Austin, the capital.

In 1871, the Franco-Prussian War ended, with the French defeated and the Prussians in control of the German Empire.

In 1918, the English Port of Dover was bombed by a German submarine.

Ten years ago -- President Dwight D. Eisenhower issued an executive order virtually exempting fathers and men 26 and older from the draft.

Five years ago -- A communications balloon was launched into orbit from Wallops Island, Va.

One year ago -- Three Negro men and a Canadian white woman were arrested on charges of plotting to destroy the Statue of Liberty, the Liberty Bell and the Washington Monument.

CICERO, Ill. (AP) — Danny Bucins, 9, summed up what it's like to have a beauty queen for a teacher.

"Wow!"

Danny is one of 23 fourth-graders at Roosevelt Elementary School who five days a week attend class taught by Miss Judy Piorkowski, 22, a green-eyed blonde named Miss Photoflash of 1966 by the Chicago Press Photographers Association.

The pupils all indicated agreement with the photographers' choice when Miss Piorkowski walked into her classroom Monday.

"Our teacher is beautiful," read a message on the blackboard.

With her title, Miss Piorkowski received $1,000 and a new car.

Q—Is the elephant a carnivorous animal?

A—No, it is a strict vegetarian. Its daily requirements are about a quarter of a ton of green fodder—or about 150 pounds of hay—and 50 gallons of water.

Q—Which is the largest lake in Africa?

A—Lake Victoria, or Victoria Nyanza. It is the second largest in the world.
